

Young Alumni/ Outcomes

Julia Butts '21 (Music Ed major)
- Graduate student at Nazareth
College and music teacher at York
(NY) Central School District. Played the renowned Carnegie Hall in New York City with Hartwick's Wind Ensemble.

Ushuaia Diaz '21 (Music Ed
major) - Music Teacher at Cherry Valley/Springfield (NY) Central School District. Served as assistant producer on her professors'
professional recording of Stravinsky.

Adam Fredette '18 (Music major, trombone) Recording/livestream engineer at Music Mountain (CT).
Wrote a three movement suite for the brass quintet as his senior thesis project.

Brittany Bertola '19 (Music Ed major) - Band director, Sharon Springs Central School District (NY).
This outstanding clarinetist spent a J Term studying music in Italy.

James Behret '15 (Music Ed major) - Graduate student at Messiah College, now a band director and music teacher at Oppenheim-Ephratah-St. Johnsville Central School (NY). He was an assistant sound engineer for Hartwick's Music Department.

Visit, And Share

Audition Days are your chance to tour this gorgeous campus, perform for our faculty and visiting artists, and meet with students who will tell you everything there is to know about Hartwick College.

January 22, 2022

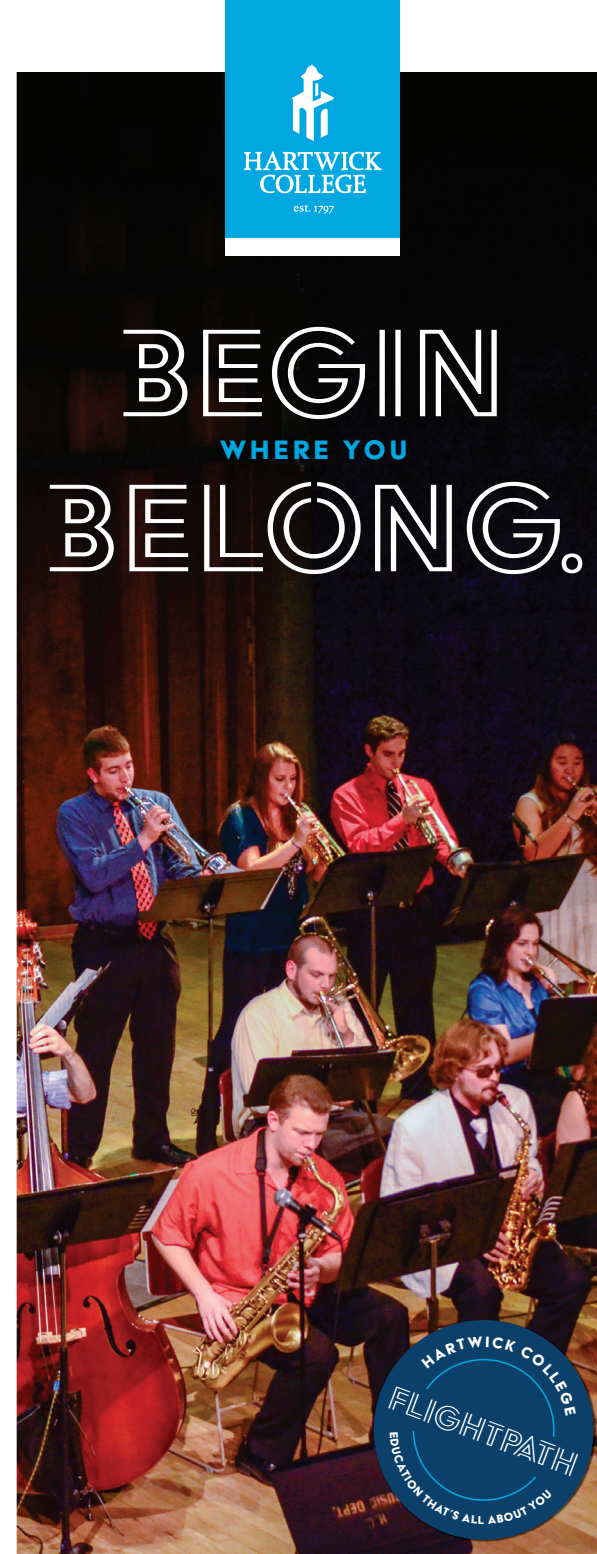

February 26, 2022

Can't make one of these Audition Days? Schedule a private audition at www.hartwick.edu/music, email music@hartwick.edu or call (607) 431-4800.
We look forward to meeting you!

HARTWICK'S FLIGHTPATH

This is a new approach to college, designed with you in mind—a blueprint that shifts and grows with you, for you. It's a journey that we all take together, with mentors who support you and milestones that build toward your success.
Here, friends become family, clubs become communities, games are filled with TrueBlue spirit, and you create lifelong memories.

Belonging is what we do best.

Music At Hartwick

What's your passion?

Performing as a career, as a side gig, educating future musicians, or maybe all three? Is Classical your thing, or are you more rock & roll? Maybe music production is in your future. No matter where you're headed, or even if you're not sure, Hartwick's music faculty will give you the personal attention and real-world learning opportunities you'll need to succeed.

With majors in both music performance and music education, as well as a music business minor, you're sure to hit the right note at Hartwick!

Your Path to Success

At Hartwick, you'll not only develop your talents, you'll also test and refine the skills you'll need for personal and professional success. You'll do it all with your individual Guidance Team at your side.

Starting with your personal Success Coach, you'll chart your college course, choosing co-curricular activities and planning future-focused work experiences. Your Faculty Advisor is your partner in pursuing your major, adding courses of interest, and testing yourself with life-changing study abroad. You'll make progress with the advice and experience of your own Career Coach and Alumni Mentor. And everything you do - from performances to teaching experiences to activities and internships - goes on your Digital Resume, a powerful tool for helping you land that dream job.

Opportunities

At Hartwick, you'll have 12 ensembles to choose from, including Wind, Brass, Choir, Musical Theater, Rock and Jazz. But why choose just one? All ensembles are scheduled to avoid conflicts, so you can play chamber music one night and sing in the choir the next. You'll learn from performers who carry a wealth of professional experience, many of them across multiple instruments and genres.

Best of all, you'll have real-world opportunities to hone your skills on- and off-campus. Student ensembles and vocalists perform everywhere from football half-time at Wright Stadium to the Carnegie Hall stage. Music education majors get into the classroom in their first year, and every year following. And music business minors will have their chance to record and promote albums by Hartwick bands.

Young Alumni/ Outcomes

Julia Butts '21 (Music Ed major)
- Graduate student at Nazareth College and music teacher at York (NY) Central School District. Played the renowned Carnegie Hall in New York City with Hartwick's Wind Ensemble.

Ushuaia Diaz '21 (Music Ed major) - Music Teacher at Cherry Valley/Springfield (NY) Central School District. Served as assistant producer on her professors' professional recording of Stravinsky.

Adam Fredette '18 (Music major, trombone) Recording/livestream engineer at Music Mountain (CT). Wrote a three movement suite for the brass quintet as his senior thesis project.

Brittany Bertola '19 (Music Ed major) - Band director, Sharon Springs Central School District (NY). This outstanding clarinetist spent a J Term studying music in Italy.

James Behret '15 (Music Ed major) - Graduate student at Messiah College, now a band director and music teacher at Oppenheim-Ephratah-St. Johnsville Central School (NY). He was an assistant sound engineer for Hartwick's Music Department.

Visit, And Share

Audition Days are your chance to tour this gorgeous campus, perform for our faculty and visiting artists, and meet with students who will tell you everything there is to know about Hartwick College.

January 22, 2022

February 26, 2022

Can't make one of these Audition Days? Schedule a private audition at www.hartwick.edu/music, email music@hartwick.edu or call (607) 431-4800. We look forward to meeting you!

HARTWICK'S FLIGHTPATH

This is a new approach to college, designed with you in mind—a blueprint that shifts and grows with you, for you. It's a journey that we all take together, with mentors who support you and milestones that build toward your success. Here, friends become family, clubs become communities, games are filled with TrueBlue spirit, and you create lifelong memories.

Belonging is what we do best.

BEGIN WHERE YOU BELONG.

Music At Hartwick

What's your passion?

Performing as a career, as a side gig, educating future musicians, or maybe all three? Is Classical your thing, or are you more rock & roll? Maybe music production is in your future. No matter where you're headed, or even if you're not sure, Hartwick's music faculty will give you the personal attention and real-world learning opportunities you'll need to succeed.

With majors in both music performance and music education, as well as a music business minor, you're sure to hit the right note at Hartwick!

Your Path to Success

At Hartwick, you'll not only develop your talents, you'll also test and refine the skills you'll need for personal and professional success. You'll do it all with your individual Guidance Team at your side.

Starting with your personal Success Coach, you'll chart your college course, choosing co-curricular activities and planning future-focused work experiences. Your Faculty Advisor is your partner in pursuing your major, adding courses of interest, and testing yourself with life-changing study abroad. You'll make progress with the advice and experience of your own Career Coach and Alumni Mentor. And everything you do - from performances to teaching experiences to activities and internships - goes on your Digital Resume, a powerful tool for helping you land that dream job.

Opportunities

At Hartwick, you'll have 12 ensembles to choose from, including Wind, Brass, Choir, Musical Theater, Rock and Jazz. But why choose just one? All ensembles are scheduled to avoid conflicts, so you can play chamber music one night and sing in the choir the next. You'll learn from performers who carry a wealth of professional experience, many of them across multiple instruments and genres.

Best of all, you'll have real-world opportunities to hone your skills on- and off-campus. Student ensembles and vocalists perform everywhere from football half-time at Wright Stadium to the Carnegie Hall stage. Music education majors get into the classroom in their first year, and every year following. And music business minors will have their chance to record and promote albums by Hartwick bands.

